Dear Members of the Nobel Peace Prize Committee:

I am formally nominating President Donald J. Trump for the Nobel Peace Prize in recognition of his bold and unprecedented leadership in advancing peace around the globe, most recently through his efforts in brokering the historic ceasefire agreement between Israel and Hamas.

At a time when global conflict is escalating and many leaders hide behind speeches instead of action, President Trump is delivering results. Through tireless negotiation and direct engagement with regional partners—including Egypt, Qatar, and Turkey—President Trump achieved what many believed to be impossible: a ceasefire agreement, the release of hostages, and a framework for rebuilding Gaza and reconciliation between Israelis and Palestinians. This was not just political theater at a United Nations General Assembly speech; it was serious, results-driven diplomacy that will save thousands of lives and restore hope to millions.

This cease-fire deal follows other major victories for peace. On August 8, 2025, at the White House, President Trump brokered a groundbreaking agreement between Armenia and Azerbaijan, putting an end to decades of hostility and creating the “Trump Route for International Peace and Prosperity,” a trade and transit corridor that will benefit the entire region for generations.

Just weeks before that, on June 27, 2025, his administration brought the Democratic Republic of the Congo and Rwanda to the table in Washington, D.C., securing a deal to end fighting, withdraw troops, and open the door to economic cooperation and Western investment.

Three separate regions. Three separate conflicts. And in each case, President Trump achieved what career diplomats and global institutions have failed to deliver for decades—actual peace agreements.

The Nobel Peace Prize should honor not just ideals, but real, measurable accomplishments. President Donald J. Trump's work has saved lives, brought stability to volatile regions, and shown the world that American leadership still matters.

For these reasons, I strongly urge you to award President Donald J. Trump the 2025 Nobel Peace Prize.

Sincerely,
